Anthony Lycka, charged with incest, was found guilty and sentenced to three years in Fort Saskatchewan jail, on Tuesday afternoon. The trial was held in Macleod.

Assessment Rate Set at 22 Mills For 1941

Budget for $17,000; Town Employees Given 18 Cents Per Day Increase; Merchants Ask Peddling By-Law Be More Strictly Enforced.

Regular meeting of the council was held on Tuesday evening. Present Mayor Antrobus, Councillors Aboussafy, Dutil, Ford and Jenkins.

Estimates for operating the various municipal departments for 1941 were submitted by the committee chairmen. It was found necessary to budget for $17,000, the same as last year. The assessment rate of 22 mills was then passed.

Two improvements mentioned were the hardfacing of that portion of the street starting at Mrs. Florence Smith's residence and running to Pryde's corner on Fourth street. The other was the widening of the bridge near Sartorius Lumber Yard on main street. There is no pedestrian walk at this point and owing to the increased traffic it is becoming a source of danger.

A delegation was present from the local U.M.W.A. union. It asked that the taxes on the Miners' hall be waived for 1941. This was agreed to on the same conditions as last year, namely that the hall committee make improvements to the building to the best of its financial ability. A deficit of $128.05 was shown on the hall's operations during the past thirteen months.

Lorenzo Richards, manager of the Grand Union hotel, asked permission to place two stop signs on main street leading into the parking lot next to the hotel. On Saturday evenings especially the main street entrance to the lot is blocked by parked cars. Permission was granted, council advising that two permanent "No Parking" signs be installed.

Mrs. James Fraser, sixth street, asked that provision be made to improve the drainage system along side her home. Foreman John Nittuk was authorized to inspect the drainage system at that point when weather permits.

A $10.00 donation was granted the National Institute for the blind. A $10.00 donation was granted the Crows Nest Pass Musical Festival.

The $20.00 membership fee to the Union of Municipalities was authorized paid.

A letter was received from the provincial department of relief stating that Mrs. John Gamache was a municipal case. The letter from E. O. Duke, M.L.A., regarding Mrs. Gamache was tabled.

Upon the decision of Mr. Bradley of the highway traffic board will rest the council's decision to place a stop sign at the residence of J. A. McDonald on Second street, where cars turn the corner to pass Excel Builders' store and then on to main street. This corner is most dangerous and only recently there was a car accident there.

A letter will be sent to Edmonton asking permission to sell the Hatfield property in West Coleman.

An 18 cents raise was granted the town employees starting March 1. The raise to the secretary will be borne equally between the town and school.

Permission to keep a goat was refused J. Mizra, of West Coleman. When weather permits the local volunteer fire fighting crew will hold regular fire drills. Certain hydrants were recommended to be opened at regular intervals to avoid accumulation of mud.

Councillor Dutil reported on the meeting held by the merchants to discuss the closing by-law. Only thirteen members at-

Coleman Elks Attend District Meeting At Macleod Tuesday

Frank Walshe, of Macleod, Recommended As District Deputy; G. A. Brown and Frank Barringham Address Gathering.

Nineteen members of Coleman Elks lodge motored to Macleod on Tuesday evening to attend the district meeting of Elks lodges from Coleman, Blairmore, Granum and Macleod.

District Deputy Sidney White, of Blairmore presided at the regular meeting and installation held before the main business of the meeting was conducted.

Frank Walshe, of Macleod, was recommended for the office of District Deputy in district No. 2.

During the meeting short addresses were given by Past Exalted Rulers George A. Brown and Frank Barringham of the Coleman lodge.

Following the meeting the decks were cleared and some real entertaining was given by talented artists. The social evening was enjoyed by all present.

High School Students to Publish Paper

Alfred Jones Elected Editor of High School Echo; Twenty Departments to Gather Material; Will be Published Monthly.

Peter Bakaj, president of the high school students committee, called the students together last Wednesday evening to discuss the publishing of the high school Echo and to elect officers whose duties it will be to publish an interesting and new paper.

Those elected include: Editor, Alfred Jones; Sub-Editor, Irene McLeod; Humor, Nino Borardo; Why Teachers Turn Grey, Alfred Ledieu; Gracie Heathrobb, Irma McLeod; Business Manager, Armande Deluca; Assistant, Lorain Easton; Fashion, Laura Antle; Literary Column, D. J. Clark; P.T. and Folk Dancing, Pat Hoy; Music, Owen Brown; 20 Years Hence, Beverley Short; We Observe, Peggy McDonald; Gossip, Mary Panek; Home Economics, Anna Molus; Shop, John Ondrus; Cartoonist, Jack Graham; Sport, Mike Osinichuk; Inquiring Reporter, Elsie D'Appolonia; Local News, Lena Snider and Patricia Emmerson.

The first issue is scheduled for the end of March and will be published monthly thereafter. It is two years since the Echo was published.

Zak's Meat Market Moves Into New Store

Streamlined Show Cases and Counters Give Modern Touch to Interior; Meat Department Given Special Attention.

Henry Zak moved into his new building at the week-end on the location where his former store stood before being destroyed by fire Nov. 11.

The meat department has been given special attention. The meat is displayed in a frigidare meat counter. Gray tile has been placed around the meat department and harmonizes with the white enamel paint of the walls and ceiling.

In the grocery department counters and show cases are streamlined, the latter showing off the goods to advantage. A color scheme of pale green and white adorns the ceiling and walls. The exterior of the store will be given an added coat of stucco following which it will be given a coat of paint when weather permits.

At the rear is a loading platform which facilitates delivery service. The dwelling at the rear of the building and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zak, jr., will also be stuccoed.

tended the meeting. Following further discussion it was deemed advisable that Councillor Dutil secure the names of the merchants desirous of having a closing by-law and explain fully such merchants what the by-law would mean.

A recommendation sent from the merchants' meeting was that the council take steps to enforce existing by-laws pertaining to transient peddlers. Considerable discussion took place regarding certain by-laws on transient peddlers. The by-law committee was authorized to study the matter and report back at the next meeting.

Calgary Entries Expected At C.N.P. Musical Festival

Accordions Solos to Feature Festival; Entries Now Being Received.

Secretary Harry Stobbs has announced two new classes in the Crows Nest Pass Musical festival. They are the piano accordion solo and piano accordion band. As a result of these classes some entries are expected from Calgary and other southern Alberta points. Coleman has a number of young accordion players and it is expected they will enter these new classes.

The festival will be held on April 28, 29 and 30.

Last year Jim Cousins and his school students won high honors for themselves and school. St. Paul's United church choir is also expected to enter as Dr. C. Rose its conductor, is an ardent musician, and his choir did itself proud last year at the festival.

Dr. Rose is vice-president of the festival.

Coleman Hotel to Renovate Refreshment Parlor

Will Make Accommodation For Ladies Refreshment Room Back of Hotel to be Practically Rebuilt.

Contractor J. S. D'Appolonia has started work on the renovation of the refreshment parlor of the Coleman hotel.

The present lavatories will be torn out and located at the back of the building. The space gained will be given over to the ladies refreshment room. The row of booths on the east side of the room will be eliminated and table and chairs installed. A partition will separate the ladies' room from the men's.

The bar will be remodelled, the present long one being replaced by a small modern bar. The walls will be re-decorated and new lighting fixtures installed. The back of the hotel, according to the contractor will be practically rebuilt.

SCOTTISH MINERS MACHINE GUNNED WHEN COMING FROM MINE

A letter was received this week by a local lady from friends residing at her old home town in Fifehire, Scotland. It stated that miners coming out of the Minto mine, near Lachgally, were machine-gunned by a Nazi plane when coming from the mine.

A number of local citizens hail from that part of Fife and the Minto mine is well known to them.

Prov. Commissioner Pardee Congratulates Local Girl Guides

A letter was received recently by Miss Winnifred Dunlop on behalf of Coleman Girl Guides from provincial commissioner Pardee congratulating the girls on their splendid work in sending supplies to the Guide National War Services Fund. Here is her letter: "What a lovely box of dainty things arrived from you and the Coleman Girl Guides. It was splendid of the girls. Some babies will be so cozy and some mothers so happy with this work of the Coleman guides."

"Thank you all so much for your gifts to our national war services. Alberta is doing well and Coleman is certainly doing its part. —Sincerely yours, Marjorie Pardee, prov. com."

Rippon Reaches Final of Cole Competition in Pass Bonspiel

Oliver Wins Pontiac and Olds Wins Studebaker; J. Kerr in Semi-Final of The Cole Competition.

The Rippon rink blasted its way to the final of the Cole competition on Monday evening when it scored wins over McEachern and Fisher of Bellevue. It had previously defeated the Bill Kerr rink in the first round, last Sunday evening.

In the semi-finals of the same competition Jim Kerr's rink meets the Dezorzi rink from Bellevue, the winner to meet Rippon. First prizes are pen and pencil sets, the second prize being cassettes and one month's passes to any Cole theatre.

The two main competitions have been completed. Oliver beat Hayson in the final of the Pontiac, and The Dick Olds rink, of Blairmore, beat Gordon Key, of Bellevue. The D'Appolonia rink which had been so strong last week met defeat at the hands of the Olds rink. Skip D'Appolonia was suffering from a severe attack of flu and it was necessary to default the other game in the Pontiac competition. It is to be regretted that sickness called a halt to the play of such a strong rink as it had brushed aside all opposition with little difficulty in the early rounds of play.

BELGIANS IN CANADA TO REPORT FOR MILITARY TRAINING IN ONTARIO

By virtue of a Belgian Government decree, all male Belgian subjects between the ages of 19 and 35 are now to be called forth with to service.

Those between the ages of 19 and 25 have already been medically examined and will eventually be requested to report for duty at the Belgian Training Centre in Cornwall, Ontario.

Another call is hereby made for those between the ages of 25 and 35. Furthermore, the age limit for voluntary enlistment has now been extended from 15 to 19 and from 35 to 45 years.

London In Need Of Mobile Canteens States Red-Cross

Local Organization Will Sponsor Second Annual Dance, May 23; Magazines Wanted.

Regular meeting of the Red Cross was held on Monday evening with President Wilfrid Dutil presiding.

A letter was received from Red Cross headquarters stating that the city of London, England, was in need of many mobile canteens. Cost of these canteens is in the neighborhood of $3,000 each. No action will be taken to answer the call by the local association until the conclusion of the present National War Services Campaign which will be launched March 24 throughout Coleman and the rest of the Dominion.

A letter was received from the Halifax branch of the Red Cross asking that a steady supply of magazines be sent to this Atlantic port for the benefit of seamen and soldiers. No ladies magazines are wanted. Maclean's, Life, Esquire, etc., will be gratefully accepted. Mrs. Fred Antrobus has been sending magazines for some time and citizens may leave reading material at her store. Failing that, they may leave their names and the local Red Cross Society will pick up the magazines.

Friday, May 23, was the date set for sponsoring the second annual dance of the local society. Arrangements are now being made for the dance which will be held in the Community hall.

Another shipment of knitted goods was forwarded to headquarters this week. There is still available a plentiful supply of wool for volunteer workers. Anyone interested is asked to approach Mrs. Rippon or Mrs. Sherratt.

Jimmy Russell was admitted to hospital last Friday to undergo an operation.

C. A. T. S. Notes

The week-end of April 18, 19, 20, has been decided upon as the best time to entertain another group of our Australian visitors. I think it can be truthfully said that all over town, people are looking forward to this date. Many families have had one or two Air Force boys with them T. Sisk; the guests to Mrs. Lonsbury and Mrs. Bossett. The mystery box, containing five dollars worth of groceries went to Mrs. A. Morris, jr.

This time the visitors will be of the new lot of fellows who have heard what a nice time the others had and who have been patiently waiting for a trip. We are happy to say that the willing and able assistance of the people of Coleman make it possible for us to do this.

May we also take this opportunity to thank those who patronized our first whisky drive, and we promise another enjoyable evening in the near future. The ladies prizes went to Mrs. Carol and Mrs. T. Sisk; the guests to Mrs. Lonsbury and Mrs. Bossett. The mystery box, containing five dollars worth of groceries went to Mrs. A. Morris, jr.

There are still vacancies in the group for anyone who is interested in this organization. We have been given to understand that government recognition may be a possibility of the near future, come and prepare yourself for this effort whose success means our future happiness. —Contributed.

Inflation Or Thrift

With the lessons of the past confronting them, it seems almost incredible that there should exist in Canada people who would have the government of the country adopt a policy of monetary inflation as the "easy" way of financing the country's war effort and of buttressing its internal economy.

The average Canadian of mature years, who is old enough to have been a spectator of the evil effects of inflation during the first Great War and the post-war depression era, could hardly be expected to subscribe to a doctrine which, in practice, brought such bitter rewards to the rank and file of the general public in every country which attempted to lift itself by its bootstraps in this manner.

There might be some excuse for the advocacy of the gospel of "funny money" on the part of the mentally immature, or of those who are too young to realize the disastrous effects of the adoption of a policy which history, and very recent history, has demonstrated is invariably followed by a day of reckoning, a reckoning which can only take the form of bankruptcy, such as the world experienced during the years which followed the great financial collapse of 1929.

An Object Lesson

Surely the experiences of Germany during the years which followed the Great War should be an object lesson to the people of this country of the disastrous aftermath of an inflationist policy. Indeed, had it not been for the ruinous effects of this policy, it is altogether probable that the people of that country would not have heralded Hitler as their saviour and placed him in the position of engulfing them in a war which is destined to complete the ruin blithely started when the printing presses were allowed to run amok.

Even now the people of the world are being given a demonstration of what inflation means to the common people in the countries so recently subjugated by the Nazis, where they are being stripped bare of the very necessities of existence by the subtle device of forcing them to accept printing press money for their commodities under the guise of "paying" for them. In these countries prices are soaring to a giddy altitude and this, coupled with drastic rationing, is driving them to hunger and rage.

It is bad enough for a people to be robbed by their conquerors in this polite form, but at least they cannot help it. How much worse it would be for a people wittingly to allow themselves to be robbed by such a vicious device, when they have the power to prevent themselves being tied hand and foot in economic chains.

Fortunate, indeed, are the people of this country that their leaders are men who have steadfastly set their faces against this financial evil of the wise men, who realize that the safe way is not the easy way, but that increasing sacrifices now will mean later on a burden that will not be intolerable and will not break the backs of the people and ruin the country.

The Same Road

This war has got to be paid for, and there are only three ways of doing it—taxation, borrowing, inflation. The first is the soundest, safest and sanest. The second is sound and safe and sane, as long as we are borrowing from ourselves, which is precisely what we are doing when we buy war savings certificates or subscribe to government loans. As long as we are following these two methods we are not preparing a road for our own backs later. The last is the broad road which leads to destruction.

The straight and narrow economic way of paying as we go or borrowing from ourselves entails personal sacrifice and necessitates thrift. It means that Canadians must spend less and less on pleasures and save more and more, not only that we may win the war more speedily but so that the shock of post-war readjustment may be cushioned.

The road to security for the future was aptly pointed out recently by J. A. McLeod, president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, in his address at the Bank's annual meeting, when he said:

"If inflation, is to be avoided, there is only one way in which Canadians can find the necessary money (to finance the war effort)—that is, by strictly limiting their expenditures and thus increase their rate of savings. It is thus a vital part of the war effort on the 'home front' that everyone who can reasonably economize should save more and more. For those whose incomes are rising as a result of war-time expansion, a high rate of saving is not only the part of patriotism, but also the part of wisdom, for in building up a reserve, they will be providing against the day of post-war readjustment when their jobs and their incomes will be gravely threatened.

"All of us," Mr. McLeod continued, "are anxious to avoid any serious inflation because it is unjust, inefficient and threatening to the very fabric of our society. Under these circumstances, we must willingly accept heavy taxation and, more than that, we must save to the maximum of our ability. It may appear that this is the hard way to finance the war, but because it combines efficiency and justice in the greatest measure, it is the best way and the democratic way."

War Savings

British Columbia Town Sets A Record For Canada

During the last six months the 552 residents of the lumber town, Chemainus, 50 miles north of Victoria, have put $24,864 into War Savings Certificates, an average of $47.53 for each inhabitant, man, woman and baby. John Humbird, head of the mills there, says Chemainus is signed up 100 per cent; for war savings—everybody saving and paying regularly to help finance the war cost. Chemainus thus has set a record that cannot be surpassed. It should be a matter of pride for the rest of us on this island that one of our towns has set this example to the rest of Canada—Victoria Times.

Poles Old And Young Have Been Deported To Siberia

Half a million Poles from the Russian occupied belt of the former republic, east of Warsaw, have been deported to Siberia in the first year of the Russian occupation, and dumped there to get along as best they can or perish if they are not strong enough to survive, writes Frederick T. Birchall in the New York Times. The mass deportations began shortly after the Red Army occupied the eastern areas of Poland and are still continuing. Their intensity varies according to the transportation available. In the deportations, says Mr. Birchall, no one, old or young, was spared—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Uses New Idea

Advertisement In British Newspapers Is In Form Of Quiz

A regular advertiser in the British newspapers is the ministry of food, which buys space to urge conservation of food to educate the people in the best use of their somewhat restricted supplies.

A recent advertisement is in the form of a "quiz" with 10 questions asked—and the answers given at the bottom in inverted type, to discourage pecking. "For what important cereal is Scotland famous?" "Everybody must have got that one." "What is the principal reason why you should buy home-produced foods?" Neither would that present any difficulties. But others were not so simple. "What is a hay-box?" "Mrs. Bartel, in Dickens' Pickwick Papers, ate 'petticoats.' What are they?" "Three of the following are protective foods, three supply energy. Which is which? Carrots, flour, tomatoes, wholemeal bread, dripping, rice." Full marks, 20 "make you a cook-general. 'Incidentally a hay-box is a fuel economizer, and petticoats are pigs' trotters.—Ottawa Journal.

Saving And Sacrifice

Investing To The Limit In War Savings Certificates

The call of the moment, and for the duration of the war, is undoubtedly one of saving and sacrifice—giving up things that are not really essential, being sparing in the use of everything, saving articles that have a commercial value, avoiding the purchase of luxuries and investing to the limit in war savings certificates and other government securities not only to assist in the prosecution of the war but to store up resources with which to ease the economic blow which will undoubtedly fall at the close of hostilities. Once they appreciate the necessity of such a course being followed, the women of Canada may be depended upon to adopt it 100 per cent.—Brookville Recorder and Times.

SELECTED RECIPES

APPLE BUTTER STACKS

1 recipe all-bran pastry
1 cup apple butter
1 4-ounce package cream cheese
1 teaspoon lemon juice.
Roll all-bran pastry on floured board to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut with large cutter into circles of squares. Prick and bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Cut the circles together with apple butter between using a stack of three for each serving. Spread cream cheese softened with lemon juice on top of stack. Serve at once. Yield: Four servings (3 1/2 inches in diameter).

All-Bran Pastry

1/2 cup All-bran
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
4 tablespoons cold water (more or less)
Roll all-bran until fine; combine with flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add water, a little at a time, until dough is moist enough to hold together.

Nazis Ban Detective Novels

Call Them Subversive Because They Make Police Look Foolish

The Nazis organization has banned all detective novels. Such literature is said to be "subversive." This will be unfortunate for Germans during the coming months because if they were to adopt the practice of Britishers they would take detective stories into their shelters and try to forget the air raids.

The Nazis figure things out this way: In detective novels there is always some individual with a master mind who does a better job of detecting than the police do. The police are usually found chasing after the wrong man, hugging wrong clues and generally making a mess of things. Then the quiet man whom the police ignored with contempt, suddenly solves the mystery and hands the culprit over to the police. This, say the Nazis, is subversive, because it makes the police look foolish and is subversive of discipline and of respect for the uniformed authorities.

That would not do in a police-ridden country like Germany. The Nazi police rule and achieve their ends by terror. But so far as being made to look ridiculous is concerned, they do that very well themselves.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Alberta Rose Culture

Develop Red Rose That Will Withstand Rigors Of Climate

An attractive variety of red rose that will withstand the rigors of Northern Alberta's climate without special care and one that will bloom for two months instead of three weeks has been developed by George S. Bugnet of the Rich Valley district. The 62-year-old pioneer who was the first settler in Rich Valley, 40 miles northwest of Edmonton, has cross-bred cultivated roses with native kinds for 16 years as a hobby.

His new variety of semi-double roses have various shades of red with blooms 3 1/2 inches in diameter. Mr. Bugnet said he does not intend to turn his hobby into a money-making proposition and is not interested in selling roses.

At present the pioneer homesteader is working on a yellow rose but this work will take "five or six years" to bring to the standard of the red shades, he explained.

Secret Device

May Be Britain's Answer To Submarine Attacks

The Toronto Daily Star said in a news story that it had learned "a secret device now being manufactured in Canada may be Britain's 'ace in the hole' against Germany's threatened all-out U-boat attacks."

The Star's story continued: "This anti-submarine apparatus practically assures the doom of any undercraft once its presence in a certain area is known, it is stated. Even though the U-boat may be hiding at a great depth it is possible for planes or destroyers to drop depth bombs with accuracy."

"Should the U-boat be caught as it is in the act of submerging, it is said, the periscope surface is rendered of no further use until it is replaced."

Encircling The World

Flying Boats Can Cover Huge Distances With Facilities At Hand

Sir Alan Cobham, addressing the Royal Society of Arts in London on the subject of refuelling aircraft in the air, said that we had now sufficient data and experience of successful achievement to show that the process was no longer an experiment but a practice which could be put into everyday use.

Important trials had led to the conclusion that, generally, flight refuelling could be carried out whenever it was possible to operate air transport. The refuelling operation had also been carried out on flying-boats employed on the Atlantic service. In addition to flight refuelling to assist takeoff, it could be used for refuelling aircraft at some intermediate point along the route.

With a still air range of 5,000 miles it would be possible for aircraft to encircle the world, with stops at Cairo, Bombay, Singapore, Darwin, Sydney, Suva, Honolulu, Vancouver and Quebec.—London Times.

Buddhist Doctrine Forbids Hunting Wild Creatures In Tibet

Hunting is one of the greatest crimes in Tibet, for Buddhist doctrine forbids the taking of life in any form. The result is that wild creatures are very tame. In southwestern Tibet, hares, marmots, partridges, white pheasants, wild ducks and geese are completely unmoved when one approaches to within a few feet of them. In most of the monasteries meat is eaten but only the meat of domestic animals, which, it is thought, are clearly expiating some past sin in a former human existence by their present enslavement.

Widespread Raids Over Britain Cause Considerable Damage

London.—German raiders smashed twice at London over the week-end and sent bombers roaring over Britain in a sort of widespread raiding such as Britain had not seen in weeks.

The raiders flew low over the capital despite stiff anti-aircraft fire. They followed the pattern of Saturday night's raid in which Londoners were killed or wounded while they danced and dined.

Moonlight and light breezes favored the attackers. Many incendiary bombs fell in residential districts and volunteer fire watchers snuffed them out. Nurses aided the volunteers when some of the missiles fell in the garden of a maternity hospital.

Raiders also were reported near several coastal towns from northeast Scotland to south Wales.

Over the southeast coast they flew for hours over several points, alternating their flights from high to low altitudes to offset anti-aircraft fire.

It was the heaviest activity reported in the southeast area for some time.

The London night raid followed widely scattered daylight attacks on other parts of Britain.

The air and home security ministries said bombs were dropped on a few points in southeast England with no serious casualties and "very little damage" but that a small number of people were killed when a single German aircraft bombed an eastern England section.

At least six waves, one of 30 planes flying in diamond formation, crossed the coast at Dover between dawn and noon. At least one raider was reported downed.

Many persons were killed, wounded or trapped in piles of debris Saturday night and early Sunday in the first heavy night raid on Britain's capital in weeks, which claimed among its victims two Canadian officers.

Attacking with a fury that recalled the raids of last fall, the Nazis scored a direct hit on a night club—the Cafe de Paris—crowded with dancers, killing a number of persons including two Canadians; killed or injured a number of pedestrians on a London roadway, and caused other casualties when two bombs, exploding at the ends of a block, caved in a cafe where many were dining.

About 75 couples were dancing when the bomb burst in the centre of the restaurant floor, turning the gay scene of wartime night life into one of horror and destruction. Dancers, members of the band and smartly-dressed men and women at nearby tables took the full force of the blast. Most of the many casualties were among these persons.

Industrial Organization

To Harness All Possible Resources To War Needs

Ottawa.—Canada is being organized into industrial zones, each with a chairman and committee to work in conjunction with the munitions and supply department "to harness all possible industrial resources to war needs," Munitions Minister Howe announced.

Purpose of the zone committees "is to collect and maintain current industrial information and on request to advise the department of munitions and supply thereon," Mr. Howe's announcement said.

The minister added that organization work in the zones is being carried on by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce "with the approval and support of the department of munitions and supply."

In addition, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring the organizations work with a national survey of industrial resources. This survey will be conducted by a war production committee under joint chairmen, L. L. Lang of Kitchener, Ont., and J. D. Johnson of Montreal. Mr. Lang is first vice-president of the C.M.A. and Mr. Johnson is vice-chairman of the C.C.C.

The survey will provide information on labor available, machine tools and other equipment in existing plants, extent to which this equipment now is being used and extent to which it may be made available for war needs.

The announcement said "in the expansion of war production it has been the belief that speedier and more economical production may be obtained by utilizing the existing facilities in plants which would act as sub-contractors for the larger war industries."

It was believed many plants had the machinery, equipment and personnel which could be employed with advantage as sub-contractors—even on a part-time basis—on larger orders.

To Conserve Newspaper

Newspapers in Britain Will Be Reduced in Size

London.—British newspapers announced they have agreed, effective March 16, to cut their papers from six to four pages two days a week to conserve newspaper. Other week days papers will remain at six pages. The agreement also limits the size of Sunday newspapers to 10 pages instead of 12. It was stated further cuts probably will be made in the next three months.

New High Records

Applications For War Savings Certificates Still Being Received

Ottawa.—New high records for number of individual war savings certificate applications and total of money subscribed were marked up at the national headquarters of the war savings committee on March 3. The day's mail brought 44,642 individual applications with a cash total of $597,372. The previous high record for number of applications—40,970—was made in February.

Japanese in B.C. Register

Police Estimate It Will Take Months To Complete Work

Vancouver.—Scores of Japanese, old and young, filed into a downtown office of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to be thumb-printed, photographed and to give their life histories as the registration of British Columbia's 24,900 Japanese began.

A special staff of R.C.M.P. officers who speak Japanese handled registration at the Vancouver office, first to be opened in the province. Officials said registration centres will be opened in other cities in a few days and later travelling bureaux will register rural Japanese residents and fishermen in outlying districts.

Each Japanese must answer questions on a typed questionnaire, including date and place of birth and date of entry into Canada. After the information is complete, each registrant is given an identification card containing picture, thumb-print and general description. Duplicate data is filed by the R.C.M.P.

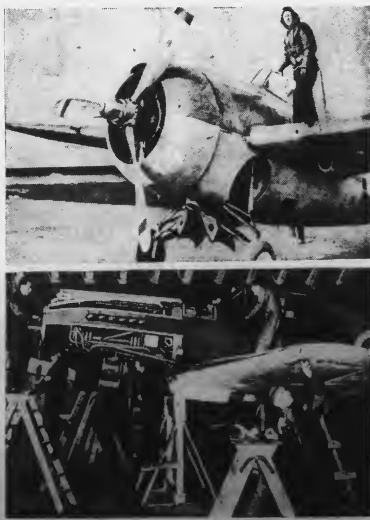

Every Japanese resident of the province, regardless of birthplace, over the age of 16 must register. Those below that age are included in the registration of their parents.

Police estimated it would take months to complete the registration of the province's Japanese population, as ordered recently by the federal government.

Malcolm Macdonald Pays A High Tribute To Winston Churchill

London.—Prime Minister Churchill was termed "the high constable of the tower of England" in a warm tribute by Malcolm Macdonald, high commissioner designate to Canada, to his political "boss." Adapting a Churchillian phrase, he told a Canada club luncheon in a witty speech that "never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to one man."

Mr. Macdonald said North America is making a vital contribution to victory. United States, as the arsenal of democracy, was partnered by Canada's vigorous effort, where factories worked beyond the range of enemy bombers.

"It is not only materials we are getting from the Dominion," declared the high commissioner designate. "Canada's young manhood is stepping into the fray."

Among other war activities "gathering tremendous momentum" in the Dominion, he stressed the Commonwealth Air Training plan, whose graduates will fly to Britain "like young eagles circling, pouncing upon and killing their wretched prey."

Victory assuredly will rest with the Empire's armies—"those pioneers of a brighter future"—and not with the Axis powers, "those bragging mimics of an old order"—tyranny. He confessed he was leaving Britain with mixed feelings. "It would be a poor representative of Britain anywhere who had not got a passionate belief in this great year 1941 when no place in the wide world matters so greatly as this precious island."

The distinguished gathering included many cabinet ministers, prompting the chairman, Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner, to comment that the "affairs of state of this country could very satisfactorily be conducted from this room."

Introducing the guest of honor, Mr. Massey said "we know Mr. Macdonald in Canada and we like him." He asserted the new high commissioner's spiritual home will be "somewhere on the Lake of the Woods, where there is a sort of Trans-Atlantic Lismore."

Mr. Macdonald said he had a small godson who thought he had been appointed "lord high executioner" in Canada.

"Having an axe to grind of his own, he was eager to come with me because he wants a seat in the front row stalls at the first performance of my duties," Mr. Macdonald said.

Boost Tourist Industry

Prospective Visitors From United States Will Be Welcomed

Ottawa.—Prospective United States visitors to Canada had the assurance of Prime Minister Mackenzie King that "the fact we are at war will not occasion the slightest interference with your enjoyment and freedom."

Visitors would receive the full premium on their money, the prime minister wrote in an official invitation to "the citizens of the United States" to visit the Dominion in 1941.

"The American dollars which you leave behind will be used by the government of Canada for purchases to be made in the United States," he continued. "These purchases will be used for the defence of the ideals of freedom and justice which we hold in common."

The invitation was issued through the Canadian government travel bureau.

Invasion Preparedness

London.—Twenty-million "What to do" leaflets will be distributed to Britons this week as a part of the government's anti-invasion preparedness campaign.

Industries Consolidated

British Government Shifting Workers And Materials To Arms Manufacture

London.—The government has decided to shut down or consolidate 50 to 90 civilian industries employing 1,000,000 workers and to shift all available manpower and materials to arms manufacture. The program was announced to the House of Commons by Oliver Lyttelton, president of the board of trade. The first industries to be affected will be hosiery, pottery, textiles and leather.

Under the plan one firm in many cases will be expected to do the work of three others, preserving all trademarks. The board of trade is to keep records of all closed factories and "do everything possible to see they retain their good will and restart in good condition" after the war.

Outlied Countries

Ottawa.—Bulgaria and Hungary have been made proscribed territories by order-in-council, consequent on recent developments in the Balkan area. Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons.

Say Western Farmers Should Grow More Corn, Flax, Barley

Winnipeg.—The Associate committee on Grain Research recommended at conclusion of their three-day conference here that western Canada farmers increase corn, flax and barley crops as a substitute for wheat.

The committee's press report said increase of 35,000,000 bushels in barley production will be required to feed the increased hog population required to fulfill the British bacon quota.

Increases in corn, flax and barley crops "might be expected to take about 1,250,000 acres out of wheat," said the report, while western agriculture as a whole would benefit, if additional acreage were used for forage crops and if submarginal lands were laid down to permanent grass.

Information given the committee suggested that under existing conditions an increase of 2,000,000 acres of sunflower in 1941 would "be justified."

The committee, established under the national research council, said: "Barley of excellent malting and feed quality can be produced in most of the northern areas where the wheat is of lower protein content and of lower baking strength."

"Possibilities also exist for increasing our export of high quality malting barley both to England and the United States, as well as creating a new market in South America, now cut off from European supplies."

"It is an established fact that Canadian six-row malting barley is superior to corresponding barleys grown in the United States. Candian malt is also highly valued in the United States owing to excellent extract yield.

"The exploitation of these possibilities depends upon farmer co-operation. A wider effort to produce better quality barley by seeding early on clean land is definitely desirable."

The committee said "flax is now receiving considerable attention as it is the best adapted oil-bearing seed for western Canada and yields a drying oil suitable for manufacture of paints and enamels."

High quality of the oil from western Canadian flax makes possible a small export trade in flax-seed which might amount to 1,000,000 or 2,000,000 bushels, while domestic consumption will probably amount to 3,500,000 bushels. Last year Canada produced 3,250,000 bushels of flax.

Sunflower seed also shows promise for production of edible oils. An expanded program of investigation of adopting sunflower crops on the prairies "is planned," said the committee.

Western Canada corn "is too high in moisture content" but production of feed corn which can be dried artificially "might be pushed in certain areas in southern Manitoba," the report said. Production of corn for industrial utilization may be promising in southern Ontario. Dean L. E. Kirk of the University of Sas-

Submarine Menace

Report Nazis Building Fleet Of Small U-Boats To Be Manned By Suicide Crews

London.—Capt. A. S. Cunningham-Reid told the House of Commons that Germany is building a fleet of small, fast U-boats manned by "suicide crews" for trips to Britain from which they could have small hope of returning.

The Conservative member declared the submarines "are expected to get as far as the shores of our coast, and they are not expected to return. They are being manned by fanatical young Germans—volunteers of a death or glory brigade."

"They would be torpedoes at short range and their subsequent chance of escape, provided there was adequate convoy, would be negligible."

London.—The King conferred honors on the commanders of the fighting services in the Middle East "in recognition of recent successful combined operations."

Freighter Reaches Port

Boston.—The bomb-scarred and machine-gunned Norwegian freighter Favorit arrived in port with 3,500 tons of chalk from the British Isles. Members of the crew told of the vessel being attacked by German planes almost nightly while docked in the Thames estuary.

Raid On Norway By British Is Carried Out With Success

London.—A British foray against the German-held Lofoten islands of Narvik, Norway, not only bagged 225 prisoners and destroyed German war equipment but also "rescued" 300 Norwegians desiring to fight beside Britain, it was disclosed as the raiders landed their captives and recruits at a British port.

The prisoners, 215 Germans and 10 Norwegian Nazis whom the admiralty called "Quislings" included two high-ranking naval officers and 20 aviators.

The raiders laid fiery waste to the German establishments on the islands and sank 18,000 tons of German shipping, but took time to deliver to the Norwegian population foods, soap, cigarettes and other comforts largely denied them since the German occupation last year, the admiralty announced in describing the extraordinary expedition.

"The raid was planned with a three-fold object. In the first place it was desired to destroy a plant used for production of fish oil. This is the season in the Lofoten area in which production of fish oil takes place and also fishery products, like all other Norwegian productions required by Germany, which are entirely absorbed by the enemy.

"The fish oil produced was of particular importance to Germany as it is used as glycerine in the making of explosives.

"The second object was to destroy any German ship or ships under German control found in the locality.

"Thirdly it was desired to take prisoners, Germans concerned in the control of the fishing industry and such local Quislings who were aiding and abetting the enemy.

"The raid developed early in the morning. German shipping and shipping under German control was dealt with by light forces. Meanwhile, Norwegian marines and British troops were landed.

"All objects of the raid were carried out with considerable success. Nine German merchant vessels and one Norwegian ship under German control were sunk and also a German armed trawler. Losses inflicted upon enemy shipping totalled approximately 18,000 tons. The largest unit sunk was a German ship of about 10,000 tons which was fully laden.

"Having achieved all their objects the Allied forces withdrew, bringing with them 215 German prisoners and 10 Quislings. Our forces also brought back to England a considerable number of patriots who were anxious to join their countrymen in fighting for the cause of freedom.

"Opportunity was taken to supply for the benefit of the local population consignments of fruit, foodstuffs, soap, cigarettes, clothing and other comforts which the Norwegian population has been without since the German occupation.

"The removal of Germans and Quislings made it possible to supply these stores to the Norwegian population without danger of their being diverted to enemy use.

"The raid was carried out with little opposition but one German naval officer and six ratings were killed. No damage or casualties were sustained by our forces.

"It is worthy of note that German statements issued about this raid have stressed the complete surprise which was achieved by the Allied force in this most successful operation."

The Lofoten islands stretch for about 150 miles along the Norwegian coast and guard the approaches to Narvik fjord.

If you cannot win, make the one ahead break the record.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THERE was a touch of drama in the court sittings at Macleod this week. White men and Red Indians were keenly interested in a murder trial. A young blood 23 years of age was charged with killing his 31 year-old brother. Both had become drunk with rubbing alcohol, and on their return home late one wintry night in November last to the home of their parents on the reserve near Cardston, the older brother assaulted his parents of about 60 years of age. The younger brother rushing to their assistance, seized an axe and gave the older one two blows on the head from which he died a week later.

BRITISH justice demands that the Indian, a ward of the government, as are all Indians, be given the same trial as a white man. He is allowed equally as good legal defence as the highest in the land may obtain, for the law does not require an accused to prove himself innocent, but it does say that the prosecution, which in a murder trial is the Crown, must prove him guilty beyond any question of doubt. Extenuating circumstances of the case brought out in evidence convinced the jury of six white men that the young Indian had in rushing to the assistance of his parents been more concerned with their safety than in saving his own life. His older brother was a much more powerful man, against whom his parents were almost helpless. The result was that a verdict of manslaughter was returned, and the accused was given five years suspended sentence by the presiding judge, which really sets him free, under certain restrictions.

THE contrast in the British way of doing things and the summary trials and executions in German occupied countries of Europe was forcibly impressed on the minds of those attending the trial. For much less serious offences such as listening on radio sets to broadcasts from non-German controlled agencies, people are punished and threatened with the extreme penalty. Even the formality of a trial is a mere farce. It is because British methods of administering justice provide every safeguard against miscarriages and are so impartial that the law always held in the highest respect by the masses not only in British countries but in all countries of the world which are not dominated by totalitarian methods. It again serves to show that in this war we are fighting for ideals—fairness, liberty and freedom of thought against the tyrant's crushing heel.

TO preserve this democratic way of life, we must in the present crisis in world affairs endure sacrifice. The cost of living may rise; we are called on to pay increased taxes, to lend our savings to our government, to give to war charities, to the point of where it hurts, though none have been really hurt so far as none have suffered any physical hurt. A man's most highly prized possessions next to life itself are his family and his home, or his business, which are accumulated over years of toil and care for those nearest him. In Britain and war-stricken countries of Europe thousands have suffered the loss of these prized possessions in the twinkling of an eye, and have been bereft of their loved ones. How little in comparison are we asked to give. To give all of our material wealth would be small in comparison to having a bomb dropped on us in the middle of the night.

SOME will say—it could not happen here! Canada is a long way from Europe, and we have a strong good neighbor republic, but some of the evils of totalitarianism were in danger of being inflicted on the people of this province. Of this we are reminded in the address of Andrew Davison, M.L.A., during the speech from the throne debate in the Alberta legislature. Democratic ways of life can be taken from the people by stealth, promises that are never intended to be fulfilled and by hypocrisy. In the course of his address, Mr. Davison stated that "in view of the failure of this government to convene a session of this house at a reasonable date following the general election, although courteously asked to do so by the Independents, and in view of the very casual way in which we have been treated ever since our election, I wish to protest with all the power at my command against the manner in which democratic government is being abused and flaunted in Alberta. I warn you we are gradually but surely drifting towards a dictatorship—a dictatorship where might will be right and the rule of the big stick will prevail. So long as I remain a member of this House I will fight such a policy and will not mince words in saying what I think it."

Local Campaign for Canadian War Services Fund Organized

Questions Answered
What is the Canadian War Services Fund?

Six institutions have united in a drive for funds under this name. The institutions are: Canadian Legion, Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., I.O.O.F.

Why was it instituted?—Each of the six organizations ordinarily solicits the public separately for funds. In view of the demands upon the national economy the Government urged the consolidation of appeals to the public.

What is the objective?—For Canada: $5,500,000. For Ontario: $2,553,200.

Who approved the budgets?—The War Charities Funds Advisory Board, an organization of representative business men under the chairmanship of C. L. Burton. Substantial economies were effected by this Board in consultation and co-operation with the organizations concerned.

Will Economies effected impair the services rendered men in uniform?—

No essential services to the men of Canada's military, air and naval forces were curtailed.

Will there be other national appeals for the benefit of men in the armed forces?—

No, not this year.

How are the funds handled?—

A corporation, under the presidency of Mr. J. Y. Murdoch, K.C., of Toronto, has been granted letters patent by the Secretary of State and registered under the War Charities Act, to serve as a trust in the handling of the funds subscribed. It is a non-profit corporation and its function is to receive these funds and to distribute them in accordance with the approved, authorized budgets. Every dollar is safeguarded.

What other revenues do war service organizations receive?—

None. The services are supported entirely by the "folks at home."

How is the Canadian War Services Fund organized?—

The patrons of the united campaign for funds are His Excellency the Earl of Athlone, K.G., Governor-General of Canada, and Her Royal Highness Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone. A National Committee has been set up to direct the drive and to provide national publicity and advertising. Provincial chairmen have been appointed and in Ontario, county, district and municipal County chairmen. The district and municipal organizations constitute the front line of the campaign and upon them will fall the responsibility for securing the funds from the public.

Will there be subscription cards?—

Yes. How will receipts be issued?—The stub on the subscription card is a temporary receipt. The permanent secretary will mail an official receipt after the campaign.

Will a permanent office be set up to take care of deferred subscriptions?—

Yes.

What are the functions of war they merit support?—

Their chief function to sustain the morale of the men in the armed forces by providing educational programs, recreational facilities, sports material, books, huts, canteens, and other amenities calculated to provide a healthy atmosphere for men in training and overseas. Trained officers in these services organize off-paraade activities and help the men with their problems. The organizations merit all the support that can be given them because in helping to maintain high morale, they are contributing towards winning the war. In providing educational programs for the men, they are helping to solve the problems of war's aftermath.

Who gets the profit from the operation of War Services Canteens?—

Canteens are run on a non-profit basis. Five per cent of the gross proceeds from sales goes to the Commanding officer of the Unit served by the canteen for the benefit of the men. If more than one unit is served the 5% deduction is administered by the Camp Commandant. Two per cent of the gross proceeds from sales is allowed to the service organization operating the canteen for administration expenses. Any surplus after these deductions, is placed in a trust fund for the benefit of the men.

THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Merchants should take advantage of this weekly newspaper to make known to newcomers and old-timers as well what they have to sell. Coleman should have a paper containing the advertisements of every business place, for people like to be informed. It is the best way to get them to local stores. Every aggressive and enterprising retailer will make it a point to spend a little time every week preparing worthwhile copy for an advertisement. The Journal is positively the best medium for developing local trade, for it is read more closely and by more people than any other newspaper circulating in the town and district. Its advertisements are set in attractive style by experienced printers, which create a favorable impression on prospective buyers of all types of merchandise.

"The Task Will be Greater In 1941"

Canada's rapidly expanding production for war purposes will require increasing sums of money. That is why the Prime Minister warned Canadians in his New Year's broadcast that the year ahead demands more effort and more sacrifice.

Every man, woman and child is asked to lend. Every dollar you lend will help to put another man in a job... making more munitions. Every dollar you lend may save a soldier's life... help to shorten the war. Small wage earners must carry their share of the burden, too.

METROPOLITAN LIFE CONTINUES PROGRESS IN 1940

Record total paid by Company during year to Policyholders and their Beneficiaries.

OTTAWA, March 7th. — Reporting to its more than 28,500,000 policyholders on company business in 1940, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, in its seventy-fourth annual report released today, shows payments to policyholders and their beneficiaries during the year of almost $384,000,000, a record high in the history of the company. This figure is only one of many in the report indicating that life insurance is an active, continuing force — a living force in the homes of millions who share its benefits. This record amount paid in 1940 represented payments at an average rate of $5,624.70 a minute during each business day. Of payments made in 1940, Ordinary and Group policyholders received a total of $310,163,533; Industrial policyholders $73,768,172; and Accident and Health policyholders $20,062,193. Over and above these payments the company added $185,875,238 to statutory and contingency reserves held for the protection of all policyholders.

Other features of the report were that the company issued $1,708,837,245 of paid-for life insurance in 1940, and as a result of the year's production, together with the amounts of insurance revived and increased, the company's total life insurance in force at the end of the year stood at a new high figure of $23,923,784,178. Classified by kinds of insurance, the total in force was made up of $12,328,831,282 or 51.52% owned by Ordinary policyholders; $7,250,005,064 or 30.31% owned by Industrial policyholders; and $4,344,947,832 or 18.17% owned by Group policyholders. The company also had outstanding personal and group Accident and Health insurance providing principal sum benefits of $1,538,261,000 and weekly benefits of $21,674,382.

It was further announced that the Metropolitan has set aside a total sum of $112,417,253 for dividends payable to policyholders in the current year, and together with additional amounts of dividends that will accrue during 1941 on Group policies, the company expects to pay out about $117,040,000 in dividends to policyholders during 1941. This is about the same as the corresponding amount for 1940. The amount held for payment of dividends to Ordinary and Group life policyholders is $37,881,878; for Industrial policyholders $20,062,193; and for Group and Individual Accident and Health policyholders $5,540,000. The aggregate sum paid or credited to date by the company to its policyholders for dividends (and bonuses prior to mutualization in 1915) together with the declaration for 1941 amounts to $1,670,484,711.

Metropolitan assets at the end of 1940 were $5,337,791,536 as compared with liabilities of $5,017,551,532, special surplus funds of $16,570,000 and unassigned surplus (surplus) of $23,870,064. As the Metropolitan is a mutual life insurance company, all assets are held for the benefit of policyholders. Commenting on references in the report to the Canadian business of Metropolitan, the Manager for Canada, Mr. E. C. McDonald, noted satisfactory increases made in the various departments. Investments increased by $12,100,000 in Canada, and the total business in force in the Dominion increased by $45,080,053 to the total of $1,208,221,511. The investments in Canada as at December 31st last totalled $226,976,446, of which $188,226,180 is represented by Dominion, Provincial and Municipal bonds. The company subscribed $11,000,000 to the first and second Dominion War Loans through its various departments and was allotted $8,000,000, which is included in the total bond investment. Mr. McDonald stated that the total amount now invested in the Dominion for the benefit of policyholders, added to the amount that has been paid to policyholders and beneficiaries since the company entered Canada in 1872, exceeds the total premiums collected in Canada by $178,000,000. Health and welfare activities in Canada were continued, the company participating in 85 health campaigns during the year; distributing 2,887,040 pieces of health literature, and through the operation of its nursing service making 317,972 visits to sick policyholders without any additional cost to them.

Mr. McDonald made reference to participation by Metropolitan employees across Canada, nearly 3,100 in number, in the Dominion's war effort. In addition to enlistments for active service in the various forces, male employees had enrolled in different units for military training. Women employees organized Red Cross groups which, in 1940, contributed 4,288 units to the central Red Cross and other organizations. They were active also in many other welfare and relief activities connected with war work. The field men took an active part in the War Savings Stamp campaign inaugurated in June and are selling Stamps at the rate of over $12,000 per month. War Savings Certificates have been purchased by employees on a payroll deduction basis, and the Canadian Head Office staff are 100% pledged.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(The editor is not responsible for opinions expressed in letters to the Press and retains the right to reject any communication submitted. Publication must not be taken as an endorsement of opinion or policy.—H.T.H.)

Editor, The Journal,
Dear Sir:

There seems to be a great lack of outward show of patriotism on the part of Colemanites in public places. This is very noticeable especially at the theatre. Last week-end it was most appalling.

In the news reel of Wendell Wilkie's visit to the old Country there was an appalling silence when our sovereigns and their children were on the screen. Also when Prime Minister Churchill came on the screen. Are not these people great examples of our national unity and integrity? Are they not worthy of our applause? One should visit Calgary or any other city and have a few examples set them.

Let's show our appreciation of our rulers and the great men of today who are upholding our cherished principles. Let's give them our applause as others do even if they are only on the screen.

Yours truly,
C. J. LAWLER

"Three Cheers for the Irish"

There's so much wholesome Irish humor and sentiment in this picture that it will keep you applauding loud and long. Here's Priscilla Lane . . . bewitching! . . . as fair a colleen as ever swung a shillelagh! Here's Dennis (a false name) who'd rather be kismet than the Barney Stone! And there's Pat and Mike . . . as fine a pair of speakeas as ever wallowed a wild Irish nose! Showing at the Palace Tues., Wed., March 18, 19.

Guide Notes

Regular meeting of the Guides was held on Monday evening. The attendance was marked and patrol inspected. A patrol game was played which ended with the For-get-me-nots winning. During the next half hour the enrolment of Lenore Dafeo took place. She became a member of Shirley Hulbert's Marguerite patrol.

The following patrols have changed their names: For-get-me-nots, Rose, Blue Bells, Snow Drops; Cadets chose the canary emblem. The patrol books were then marked and the honor roll was as follows: Snow Drops and Daffodils tied with 19 points; Shamrocks 18; Marguerites 16; Cadets 14; Roses 7.

A number of the second girls will meet during the week to pass tests. Meeting ended with "God Save The King."

All the buying of War Savings Certificates is not being done by the men. Not a bit of it. The ladies are doing their full share, and this on top of their Red Cross work, and other War Activities—God bless them!

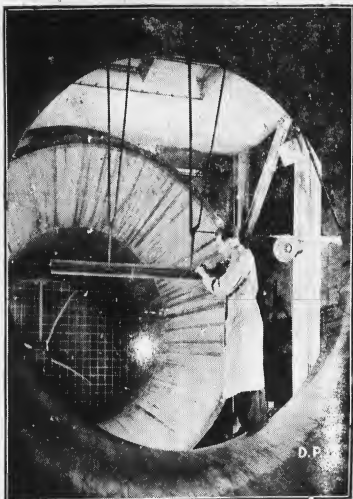

We offer our warm congratulations to the ladies of Alberta for the inspiration and example of their efforts. Before the War Savings Drive is over, we firmly believe that there won't be a home in this province that is not pledged 100% to Buy War Savings Certificates.

We are proud to pay this tribute to Albertans who are working so faithfully and so conscientiously to insure the success of the War Savings Certificate Drive.

Radio Interference Creates Annoyance

Radio interference this week, especially on Monday evening, has raised a protest from a large number of radio listeners. On Monday evening it was impossible in certain parts of town to get the Calgary-Lethbridge hockey game. On main street reception was good and a number of interested hockey followers were fortunate in hearing the play-by-play description. Notices will be received by radio owners at the end of this month informing them that their present licenses have expired and that new licenses must be purchased. It should be drawn to the attention of the radio department that interference spotters should be sent in to Coleman and eliminate interference.

Red & White Store Building Being Renovated

Top Storey to be Demolished; Warehouse to be Built at Back; Building to be Stuccoed.

Contractor J. S. D'Appolonia has started work on renovation of the Red & White store building, recently purchased from the Pythian lodge by Messrs Gate and Sherratt.

The top storey will be demolished making the building a one storey affair. A warehouse 24'x32' will be built at the back. The bevelled design of the front entrance will be carried to the full height of the building. A coat of stucco will give the building a sparkling and finished appearance.

BLAIRMORE SOLDIER DANGEROUSLY ILL

OTTAWA, March 11.—Pte. Patrick Shannon, member of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps and son of Mrs. Anne Shannon of Coleman, Alta., is listed as dangerously ill in the 39th casualty list since the start of the war and issued by the Canadian (Active) Army today. Death of eight members of the army was reported.

Ed. Note—Pte. Patrick Shannon is the second son of Mrs. Anne Shannon, of Blairmore. His brother, John, is well known in Pass baseball circles, playing third base for the Blairmore team.

RED CROSS WORK ON DISPLAY

A fine display of knitted and sewing work done by local Red Cross workers is on display at Coleman Hardware. Many parcels of such goods have been sent at regular intervals to Calgary headquarters. Mesdames W. L. Rippon and H. Sherratt would be only too pleased to have many more workers for the Red Cross and persons interested in aiding the local society need only approach either lady for material with which to work.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWAL ACKNOWLEDGED

The Journal acknowledges with thanks the renewal subscription received from Mrs. Jack Hirst, of Nanaimo, B.C.

In her letter Mrs. Hirst states she has recently received a letter from the sister of the late Mr. H. Gate in Carlisle, Eng. saying she had a visit from Joe Gate, of Coleman, and that he was looking well.

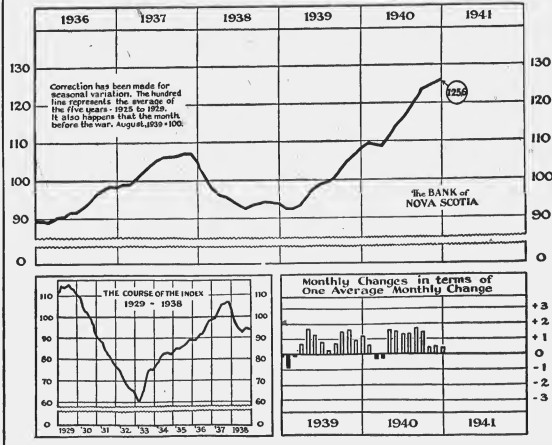

She states the streets of Nanaimo are always filled with soldiers. A recent arrival at the military camp is Renee Byden, formerly of Coleman.

INDEX OF INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY IN CANADA

average as compared with 124.9% in November and 108.3% in December, 1939. Two of the component indices—Industrial Carloadings and Employment—rose substantially, but their influence was largely offset by a decline in Industrial Production.

The fall in the Index of Industrial Production, however, is largely a reflection of the artificial result obtained by applying "normal" seasonal adjustment factors at a time when industries are working near capacity. —The Bank of Nova Scotia.

Sixty Years of Progress

Sixty years of faithful and valuable service to Canada form the background for the sixtieth anniversary of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in mid-February.

On February 15, 1881, the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald granted a charter for the building by a private company of a railway to the Pacific Coast. Two days later, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company was organized on an official basis and a glorious new era of Canada's history had begun.

The Canada of 1881 was an infant country, its sparsely settled portions separated from each other by dense wilderness. Confederation itself was in danger because of lack of communication between provinces. Railway connection with British Columbia had been promised but in ten years the work accomplished had been negligible.

The story of the building of the transcontinental line can be summed up in the statement that it was completed in half the time called for in the charter, with a pitifully small subsidy considering what had been granted in other places, and in face of the most bitter of political opposition. Time and again the whole project, including every cent of the builders' personal fortunes, seemed lost. The growth of the Canadian Pacific Railway and of Canada represents sixty years of mutual co-operation, each aiding in and benefiting from the other's strength and prosperity.

In 1881, Canada was a country with 4,324,810 population, possessing total export trade of $83,944,701 and import trade of $90,488,329. Its field crops were worth $155,277,427, its dairying $22,743,939, and its manufactures $309,576,068. In the last year of record, Canada's estimated population was 11,315,000, exports totaled $1,178,954,000 and imports $1,081,950,000. Field crops were worth $651,228,000, dairying $217,716,029 and manufactures $3,337,681,566.

The Canadian Pacific Railway's growth in the same period has been equally amazing. There was practically nothing in 1881. Now the company has 17,169 miles of rail lines in Canada, 55 ocean, coastal and lake steamships, hotels with a total of 5,294 rooms as well as summer lodges, 1,767 locomotives and 82,714 pieces of rolling stock. Its property and equipment represent investment of more than one billion dollars. Other facts of interest concerning the world's greatest transportation system are that it operated 370,000 circuit miles of telegraph line last year and carries 120,000 passengers across the Atlantic in a normal year. In 1940 the Canadian Pacific rail services carried nearly eight million passengers a total of more than 924 million passenger miles, in addition to transporting approximately 37 million tons of freight representing more than sixteen billion ton miles. During last year the company paid out in taxes more than nine million dollars and, since incorporation, a total of approximately 172 million dollars. The gross earnings in 1940 totaled $170,964,000, every dollar of which represented a unit of service to the Dominion and the Empire.

The illustrations above are symbolic of 60 years of progress and show an early stage coach which was more romantic than comfortable; the arrival of the first transcontinental train at the Pacific Coast on July 4, 1886, and the modern transcontinental train, "The Dominion."

Life Insurance In Action!

BY ITS VERY NATURE, Life Insurance is an active, continuing force—a living force in the homes of millions who share its benefits.

Last year Metropolitan visited many homes in times of family crisis, for a total of over $182,000,000 was paid on account of death claims to scores of thousands of beneficiaries of Metropolitan policyholders. Dividends, matured endowments, annuity payments, disability, and health and accident claims, and other benefits paid or credited to living policyholders during the year amounted to more than $426,000,000. The total of almost $609,000,000 for payments to policyholders and beneficiaries is a record high for the Company.

Metropolitan funds, invested for the benefit of its policyholders, continued to play a part in the life of the nation. These funds aided in financing Government activities, helped to keep industry humming and men in jobs and the nation strong and productive—helped to erect public and private buildings, and assisted farmers to own their farms and keep them in proper repair. However, the low interest rates generally prevailing, continued to have their effect on the Company's earnings and consequently on dividends to policyholders.

Moreover, through its Welfare activities, its nursing service for eligible policyholders, its research, its health and safety literature and advertising, Metropolitan again contributed to the task of bringing better health to the people of Canada and the United States. The death rate of Metropolitan policyholders as a whole continued to be low, and mortality among industrial policyholders was approximately the same as the 1939 figure, a record low for this group.

Metropolitan is a mutual life insurance company. This means that the assets of the Company are held for policyholders and their beneficiaries. The value of these assets will ultimately be paid out for their benefit... and for them only.

Garfield Jones Writes From South Wales

Journal Read By South Wales Echo Reporter; Local Grocery Prices Envy of Welsh Housekeepers.

A letter was received by The Journal Wednesday morning from Mr. Garfield Jones, former Coleman resident and father of Regnow of Bellevue, and Wyndham, now of Montreal. Mr. Jones receives The Journal each week and still takes keen interest in the doings of old Coleman friends. He writes:

"Dear Sir—Enclosed is a copy of our evening paper. Please look at page marked. I had some of the representatives of the Press here and they saw The Journal which I keep for a friend to see. The next thing I saw was the report in the paper so you see how small the world is.

I have left Coleman some years now but still feel I belong there and am still hoping some day to visit and renew acquaintances with old friends. It may interest you to know that we are keeping our chins up, and believe me if ever that guy Hitler tries to come here, well, it will be a good feed for the fishes. We are all feeling fine and I trust you at home are the same. Are we downhearted—No! Best regards to all old friends in Coleman. Sincerely yours, Garfield Jones."

Following is the cutting taken from the South Wales Echo and credited to The Journal. The part regarding highway patrol however must have been taken from national news story carried by The Journal.

They Have Been Warned
Mr. Garfield Jones, Echo Agent at Caerleon, has just received from his son in Alberta agency of "The Journal" dated January 10. It is one of the leading papers in Alberta and gives two instances of how motor speeding is tackled in two towns. In one town mentioned "the skull and crossbones flag flies over the police headquarters whenever an automobile fatality occurs in that city. Another area has what is described as a "sure method of curbing speeding." Highways are divided into 10-mile districts. As you enter the highway you are given a time card. At a control station 10 or 20 miles beyond you submit the card just a glance at the officer's watch—if you've made the distance too fast—you're pinched. What, however would interest our women folk is the large page advertisement of a big grocery store offering 100 lb sacks of potatoes for a dollar (4s. 2d.), sugar—20lb sacks for 5s. 5d., cheese—2lb. for 2s. 7d., salmon—1lb. tin for 1s. 0 1/2d. (25 cents)."

'Tis and Taint

The housewife had a new Irish cook, and one day she bought some apples and plums and instructed the girl to make tart. Entering the kitchen later in the day, she saw six tarts, each bearing the letters "T. A." in icing.

The housewife complimented cook on her skill and inquired the meaning of the letters.
"Well, Ma'am," said Bridget, "I thought you might get mixed up, so three with 'T. A.' means 'Tis Apples' and the other three with 'T. A.' means 'Taint Apples!'"—Tis-Bits.

GOOD RESPONSE BY C.P.R. EMPLOYEES

Of 658 employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway on the Lethbridge division, 140 were interviewed by Assistant Superintendent J. R. Strother, with almost 100 per cent. response. Equally good results were obtained from the remainder of the employees, deductions being made on the monthly payroll deduction plan.

Same Bread

The orderly officer received a complaint about the issue of bread.
"Soldiers should not make a fuss about trivialities, my man," he said.
"If Napoleon had had that bread when he was crossing the Alps, he'd have eaten it with delight."
"Yes, sir," said the lance corporal, "but it was fresh then."—Telephone Topics.

Edmonton's mammoth parade organized as part of the War Savings campaign had to be postponed because of cold weather, to the disappointment of thousands of small boys and girls—not to mention grown-ups—who were looking forward eagerly to the greatest display of uniformed men and women the city has known. The savings movement continues to grow apace, however, and the Alberta capital is leading the province in payroll pledges.

CHAPTER X.

"Please don't worry," Madge Fletcher kept saying over and over, one arm around Nancy's waist. "I'm sure he'll be all right, I'm sure he will."

Nancy tried to speak, found she could not, and picked up the hat and jacket one of the girls had brought for her from the locker room.

"There's a company car waiting to take you there," Madge Fletcher went on. "The driver will wait there until you're ready to leave. Don't worry about coming back to the office to-day."

Nancy nodded, fighting to keep back the tears. The unexpected friendly sympathy from the head stenographer had somehow broken down the reserve she had kept up so long. She gave Madge Fletcher's hand an affectionate squeeze and went out to the yard.

Tom Cantwell was there, standing by the door. His lean tanned face was pale and drawn with anxiety.

"Nancy—I just heard about it. Never mind the company car—I'll drive you out to the hospital—"

She turned on him in a sudden fury. "I never want to see you again. I never want you to even speak to me again. This is your fault, all of it. You got Pat into this. I'll never forgive you, never, as long as I live!"

"Nancy—listen to me—"

She turned and ran blindly toward the waiting car, paying no attention. The minute its door closed behind her, she burst into tears.

"Go ahead and cry," the driver said amiably, starting the car. "Get it all cried out of you before you get to the hospital. Then you can go in to see your brother with your face washed and smiling."

She choked down a sob, and dried her eyes. It just wasn't possible to explain that she wasn't crying because Pat, her adored brother, had been seriously hurt—but because she had just told Tom Cantwell she never wanted to see him again.

The distance between the Bristow plant and the emergency hospital at the airport was an unbearably long way. Even though the driver of the company car ignored rules and regulations about safe driving, it seemed to Nancy that hours passed before they turned into the gravel driveway leading up to the little building. She was halfway out of the car before it stopped. The driver called her back.

"Want me to wait for you?" She shook her head. "I don't need to go back to the office to-day."

The emergency hospital was a little, compact building with white-painted walls and a strong smell of ether. A trim nurse at the reception desk rose to meet Nancy.

"Thorne? He's in No. 9, down the hall. You can see him in just a few minutes."

"How badly—?" somehow her throat would not let her say the words.

The trim nurse smiled at her. "He has some bones broken, but he'll pull through all right." She added, "Miss Bristow is down the hall if you'd like to talk to her."

Nancy all but ran down the several little hallways. Iris Bristow stood outside the door of No. 9, her flower-like face pale and drawn.

"Oh Iris, I'm so glad you're here!" The blonde girl reached out quickly and caught her hand. "Keep your chin up, ducky. Pat's going to be all right."

"That isn't it. That isn't all—"

Nancy caught herself quickly. "How did it happen?"

"Well, it seems Pat was driving down the highway just beyond the airport—"

"Driving?" Nancy gasped. "He wasn't flying when it happened?"

Iris Bristow shook her head. "Pat's the kind of pilot who breaks his neck on the ground. He'd just left the airport driving someone's car, when all of a sudden—" her voice all at once became hard, "some old jalopy came racing out from a side road without any warning and forced him into a tree. The driver of the jalopy wasn't in the accident, and just beat it down the road without stopping."

Nancy was silent for a moment. An old car, darting out from a side road? That had been the method used to wreck the Bristow trucks. Was it possible that the same method had been employed to—get rid of Pat? But if Pat was on the same side, why should there be any attempt to get rid of him?

"It looked like something deliberate," Iris Bristow said grimly. "Someone actually trying to break Pat's neck for him."

Nancy turned to the other girl. "Iris—it must have been. Because—"

A white clad nurse appeared in the door of No. 9, interrupting her.

"You may come in and see your brother now, Miss Thorne."

"Thanks," she turned to Iris. "Wait for me. I've something terribly important to tell you." Then Iris Bristow turned to her.

There was nothing to be seen of Pat but two bandaged arms, a mass of bright red hair and a wide grin. She went softly up to the bed and stood looking down at him.

"Hello, sis."

She caught her breath. What happened? Couldn't you duck?"

"No. They—really set out to get me—this time—"

"They?"

"Yeah—the sabotage ring."

"But Pat, you—"

"Listen, now. Some people thought—because I'd gotten so broke all of a sudden—I'd be glad to do anything for money—"

He paused a moment for breath. In that moment she caught a glimmer of the truth. Tom had drawn Pat into this thing, thinking he'd be glad of the chance to make money. But Pat—

"Pat—tell me. You were—just pretending?"

He stared at her. "You thought I'd—this business of unexplained accidents to student pilots—some of them happening to my pals, maybe even to—to Iris—you thought I'd take up with anything like that—for money?"

"Oh Pat, forgive me! I've been such an idiot!"

He drew a breath. "I pretended—to play along with them—while I tried, in my fumbling way, to weasel out some real evidence. Finally I got enough and I made up a report and sent it off to the proper authorities. But evidently I wasn't smart enough, because some guy managed to drive me into a tree to-day."

She buried her face in the side of the bed. "I've been terribly stupid."

"You sure have. You thought that I—"

"Please, Pat. I feel so miserable."

The white-clad nurse reappeared. "You'll have to go now, Miss Thorne. Your brother needs rest."

"Yes, of course." She stumbled toward the door.

Pat called from his bed. "I won't rest unless I can see Iris. I know she's there."

The nurse smiled in friendly sympathy. "All right, but only for a minute." She turned. "Miss Bristow—"

As Nancy paused in the hall she could see Iris' smooth golden head bending tenderly over the pillow. Maybe, she told herself, things would straighten out for Iris and Pat after all. But never for herself.

What a blow it must have been to Pat to learn that Tom, almost his oldest friend, was mixed up in this ghastly thing. But Pat has gone ahead and done what he had to do. Well, if Pat could be brave, so could she.

Iris Bristow came back; her wide, almost violet eyes shining. "You Thorne are a tough lot. Pat seems to be doing all right."

"He is. But I'm not." Suddenly she looked up at the big white-faced clock in the hospital corridor. "Oh, Iris!"

"What is it?"

The clock said five minutes after 6. It was an hour's drive back to the John Bristow Company. And that terribly important truck was to leave at 7. Pat's accident had driven everything else from her mind, now it might be too late.

"Iris, listen—I've got to talk fast. Have you got your car outside?"

"Yes, but—"

"Never mind, Pat. He'd want you to do this. Iris, there just isn't time to talk now—I'll have to explain it as we go along. But please—"

Iris Bristow looked at her for a split second. Okay, Nancy. But it better be good."

They hurried out to the car and Iris turned it in the direction of the plant. Nancy drew a long breath and plunged into the story from the very beginning without omitting a thing.

"That truck driver is to leave at 7," she finished. "Hugo Blake will be there and he'll have bribed the driver to let him take his place. I don't know what they mean to do."

"Not wreck the truck, evidently," Iris said thoughtfully. "They sound too smart for that."

"Whatever they're going to do, the only way to find it out is to stop them. Iris, where is your father?"

"He's at police headquarters trying to find out who murdered Grimsby. He told everyone he was out of town so he wouldn't be bothered."

Nancy looked at her watch. "Iris, here's what we'll have to do. Drop me in front of the plant as quick as you can get there. Then try to find your father. He'll know what to do next."

"But what are you going to do at the plant?"

"I don't know," Nancy said grimly, "but I'll do something."

Iris Bristow stepped hard on the gas and the remaining distance to the Bristow plant was covered in record speed. The plant was dark, save for a few lights here and there. She stopped the roadster near the entrance, Nancy opened the door and hopped out.

"Nancy, are you sure you'll be all right?"

"Yes, don't worry about me. Get your father."

As she slipped through the gate into the darkened dooryard she saw Tom's familiar roadster parked around the corner. So Tom was going to take part in to-night's affair in person. A pang shot through her, she realized that in the bottom of her heart she'd been hoping Tom might escape. Not a chance now, though.

The door marked "Employees' Entrance" was unlocked, but the old watchman was sitting in the hall.

"Getting to work kinda early, Miss."

She smiled with difficulty. "I forgot my purse and came back for it."

"Okay. Watch your step in the dark."

She followed the stairs as far as the office door, paused a moment to make sure the watchman had not observed her, then turned and went quickly and quietly through the darkened plant in the direction of the loading platform.

Food In Britain

Comparison Of Rations In Great Britain And Germany

Britain can maintain the present rations of essential foods, the United States agriculture department said, even if sea warfare slashes imports to 40 per cent. of average pre-war levels for fats and 30 per cent. for bacon and ham and sugar.

The report made a rough comparison between rations in Great Britain and Germany, in addition to fats, meat and sugar—which are rationed in both countries—bread, milk and cheese are rationed in Germany but not in the United Kingdom.

Consequently, a friend has admitted that the one time in the year he enjoys genuine and complete peace is when sick in bed with a cold. For when you are merely laid up with a cold you can be left alone, you require a minimum of attention—rest is the thing. The household affairs can be carried on much as usual so long as you are undisturbed, your medications and fruit juices handy.

Friends, as a rule, have the good taste to abstain from viewing your discomfited, knowing, perhaps, that sympathy is no antidote for a cold. Thus, it oddly appears that the solitude denied at other times is more largely present than on any other occasion. My friend was not joking; he dreads the privations and pains of a cold as well as all, but he knows that with its unwelcome visitation comes as well a unique break in the mechanical round of month to month existence.

On the other hand, the proportion of the population that is actually buying full rations, at largely unchanged prices, is larger in Germany than in the United Kingdom, where food prices since the outbreak of the war have substantially increased.

Commenting on the British rations, the department said the present restrictions "on fats—notably animal fats—appeared rather serious."

British official quarters say, the department added, however, that present rations will not impair health.

On the whole, present rations for the United Kingdom reflect a measurably reduced supply and consumption," the report stated.

Air Raid Casualties

First Seven Months Of Blitzkrieg Killed 23,081 British Civilians

Civilian deaths in Britain attributable to air-raids numbered 23,081 in the first seven months of blitzkrieg, or at the rate of about 39,500 per annum. In 1939 the deaths from all causes in England, Wales and Scotland (military deaths excluded in the last four months) numbered 563,600.

So the death of civilians in air-raids are apparently adding about seven per cent. to the normal number in that area. But in addition to the dead, 32,298 people were injured in bombing during the seven months.

In 1897, a 34-pound lobster was caught at Atlantic Highlands.

Has Its Good Points

People Afflicted With Bad Cold Usually Have Chance To Rest

The following letter by Edward Charwood, appeared in the New York Sun: Each year at about this time we read some statistics concerning the common cold—the number of working hours lost by its inroads, the burden placed upon industry and the individual for medical care, etc. There are, indeed, few of us so constituted that we do not experience at least one or more colds during the rigors of winter or the various inclemencies of the changing seasons. Usually, either at its first onset or after vain and ineffective attempts at peripatetic doctoring, this leads to an inevitable one or two days in bed—drugged with aspirin and physic, miserable from chills and fever.

But as we submit to our weakness, fretting at the discomfort, time lost, and interruption of routine resultant, a sense of quiet, of let-up, makes itself felt. I know this is true because a friend has admitted that the one time in the year he enjoys genuine and complete peace is when sick in bed with a cold. For when you are merely laid up with a cold you can be left alone, you require a minimum of attention—rest is the thing. The household affairs can be carried on much as usual so long as you are undisturbed, your medications and fruit juices handy.

Meet In Friendly Way

But Enemy Nationals In Lisbon Are Plotting In Secret

Lisbon to-day is probably the most cosmopolitan centre in the world.

It is not unusual to see Englishmen, Germans, Americans, Italians and Orientals in the same general group. Monocled Germans sit next to Britons in bars and there is no evidence of enmity. Few uniforms are in evidence among foreigners, although Portuguese officers and enlisted men are seen frequently.

The problem of language seems almost to exist. Foreigners talk with taxi drivers, waiters and barmen with gestures, often offering pictures to convey an idea for which they are unable to find words.

Lisbon is one of the brightest cities on the continent. Streets are illuminated and night clubs are crowded. Spaniards come to Lisbon on vacation trips.

But through all this apparent surface gaiety runs an undercurrent of tense intrigue.

Jingle Furnished Idea

Knitters Find Old Socks Make Good Helms And Mitts

During the first great war a bit of a jingle was written by a soldier to a well-meaning if inexperienced young knitter. It ran something like this: "Thanks dear lady for the socks you knit. I wear one for a helmet and one for a mitt."

That gave an idea for emergency work in the present war. Groups of Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire workers and Junior Red Cross units have found that old socks can be turned quite effectively into "helms" and mitts.

Greater Industrial Damage

British Giving Germany Fifty Times As Much Punishment

Arthur Greenwood, Minister without Portfolio, told a meeting of industrial leaders at Southampton, England, that the British were inflicting fifty times as much industrial damage on Germany as the Germans were on England.

He said that when he made the same assertion some time ago he was accused of "wishful thinking," but "I still maintain my statement is true."

Not Very Tasty

The sale of dogs and cats for food in the Nazi-occupied Brussels region of Belgium is reported. It is prepared in various forms, one method being to grind and mix it with linseed oil. Some also has been canned. Food control bureau agents have arrested a merchant accused of adulterating flour and gypsum.

"Cheer up, old chap. No news is good news."

"Not when you're running a newspaper."

It took 216 gallons to make a ton of ale when that liquid measure was in general use.

A newspaperman is working even when he's just reading his newspaper.
